

Data optimisation is crucial for business resilience and agility

With Metis for Financial Services, you can create fast access to reliable, integrated and highly secure data that supports dynamic decision-making. Leverage predictive analytics and AI to create valuable insights that will catalyse business expansion, growth into new markets and competitive advantage.

A paradigm shift is happening in financial services. Traditional firms are at risk of losing market share to newer, more agile providers whilst they grapple with multiple legacy systems. The rise of fintechs and legislation such as PDS2 is squeezing institutions to increase their speed to market and pace of innovation.

The key to banks, financial services and insurance firms gaining a competitive edge is more agile product and service development, paired with enhanced data analytics and actionable insights that lead to shortened development lifecycles.

Ensuring real-time, cross-functional reports are readily available with outputs that evidence regulatory standards are being met is only going to become more of a challenge. Deep business intelligence, integrated data architecture and a strong data strategy is central to minimising risk and sharpening fraud detection.
